Situated in much loved Regentville is this almost brand new home built by Renogain Builders. The original cottage that once occupied this site has been completely transformed into a contemporary work of art. The layout embraces modern living with four bedrooms, stunning bathrooms -including an en-suite with imported limestone tiling, a sound insulated media room, and a great central living and entertaining area that is the heart of the home. The large central area features a quality kitchen plus preparation room, cathedral ceilings with skylights and opens out to the alfresco entertaining area and large yard. With all the quality you would imagine from a builders own home there are too many features to list - only an inspection can do justice to this wonderful property.
